DENVER ACCESSIBLE PARKING SIGN PROGRAM

ACCESSIBLE PARKING SIGN PROGRAM
STANDARDS: Residential

Overview

The City and County of Denver places accessible parking signs on the public Right-Of-Way (ROW) in residential neighborhoods for people with disabilities that affect mobility meeting the adopted standards. A resident may request signs in front of their primary residence by completing the application and if they meet the following criteria. Accessible parking spaces are not reserved for a specific individual, vehicle, or residence.

Eligibility

The applicant:

- Is a full-time resident of the address where a signed space is requested
- Has a permanent disability that interferes with mobility
- Has a valid Colorado permanent disability parking privilege registration, placard, or plate
- Is the property owner or has approval from the property owner/manager to install the signs

If the applicant drives:

- Has a valid Colorado driver's license matching the requested address
- Has a valid vehicle registration matching the requested address

If the applicant does not drive:

- Has valid Colorado Identification Card or valid Colorado Driver's License matching the requested address
- There is a caretaker living full-time at the residence with a valid Colorado driver's license and a valid vehicle registration matching the requested address

The property:

- Has no off-street parking the requestor can use (garage, driveway, carport, open parking space)
- Has no alley access or it is not available or accessible
- Has no adjacent off-street parking lot available

Attachments:

- Copies of valid, required documentation must be submitted with application
- All required supporting documents must have the listing address of where the signed space is requested

Guidelines:

- The accessible parking space will be used as the primary parking space for the person qualifying for the space
- Further consideration will be taken if placement of signs cannot be fully in front of requestor's property
- There is a clear accessible path from the door directly to the street, or alley parking, the individual can maneuver
- Only one (1) designated accessible parking space allowed per household
- Sign requests are subject to renewal each time the requestor's accessible parking placard or plate expires
- Misuse of the space may result in the removal of the signs
- Signs will not be installed for transportation services (i.e. Access-A-Ride, emergency vehicles)
- Accessible Parking Spaces installed on the Residential ROW may be used by anyone having a valid disability placard or disability plate--the accessible space is not reserved for a specific individual, vehicle, or residence
- The accessible space can only be placed by the Denver Department of Transportation and Infrastructure where approved
- Parking restrictions are still in effect (street sweeping, etc.)
- Are approximately 25' long
- Decisions made by the program based on the Accessible Parking Sign Standards are final
- Decision will be sent to requestor in the method their application was received
